

CONSTITUTION OF IYÉ CREATIVE SOCIETY

(the “Society”)

1. The name of the Society is Iyé Creative Society.
2. The purposes of the Society are:

Primary Charitable Purposes

1. To advance education by developing, delivering, and disseminating culturally grounded, experiential learning programs, workshops, curriculum materials on nutrition, food education, cultural foodways, and land-based learning.
2. To advance the public’s understanding of regenerative agriculture and environmental sustainability by providing education, demonstrations, and publicly accessible resources that demonstrate how culturally relevant crops and foodways support ecological growing practices, community nutrition, and climate-resilient food systems.
3. To promote positive health outcomes by offering community nutrition programs, culturally aligned health education that support mental, physical, spiritual and cultural wellbeing.

Ancillary Purposes

4. To develop, publish, and disseminate educational resources for the public on culturally relevant foods, regenerative agricultural practices, land-based learning, community nutrition, and related topics that advance the Society’s primary charitable purposes.
5. To carry out charitable activities in ways that are culturally respectful, and non-extractive. Including engaging with diverse perspectives and lived experience to ensure that programs are relevant, ethical, and accessible to the communities they are intended to serve, while remaining under the direction and control of the Society.
